--------------------------------	----------------------	---------------------

TYPE OF REVIEW

Initial Review - Specify name of staff member recommending administrative confinement:

Offender Presently in Administrative Confinement - Specify date placed in confinement:
04/13/2016

- It has been alleged that you are dangerous and that you should be placed in Administrative Confinement based on:
DOC 121 RECOMMENDATION FOR ADMINISTRATIVE CONFINEMENT
- The standard used to determine dangerousness is if you evidence a substantial probability of physical harm to others as manifested by: (A) behavior or history of homicidal, assaultive or other violent behavior or by an attempt or threat to cause that harm; or (B) your presence in the general population poses a substantial risk to another person, self or institution security; or (C) your activity gives a staff member reason to believe that your continued presence in general population will result in a riot or disturbance; or (D) you have been identified as having an active affiliation with an inmate gang or street gang or there are reasonable grounds to believe that you have an active affiliation with an inmate gang or street gang and there is reason to believe that your continued presence in the general population will result in a riot or disturbance, as defined in Administrative Rule Section DOC 303.02(9), DOC 303.18 or DOC 306.22(1.).
- Before you may be placed in Administrative Confinement, the Administrative Confinement Review Committee (hereafter referred to as the ACRC) must review the allegation of your dangerousness and the recommendation to place you in Administrative Confinement.
- The following evidence will be considered at the review:
DOC 121
PACKET OF EVIDENCE
CASE FILE
- The following sources of information will be relied on at the review:
INMATE CONDUCT RECORD
- If the ACRC decides that you are dangerous and should be placed in Administrative Confinement, you:
  - May be required to reside in a segregated building or area.
  - Shall require the direct supervision of one or more correctional officers while outside of your cell.
  - May be required to wear restraining devices while outside of your cell.
  - May only participate in programs that do not require you to leave your cell.
  - May participate in limited exercise and therapy.
  - May be limited to one (1) one-hour visits per month.
  - May be provided religious, social and clinical services only if they are provided at your cell unless otherwise authorized by the Warden/Superintendent.
  - May not go to the canteen but may have approved items from the canteen delivered to you.
- You have the following rights at the review:
  - You may be present.
  - You may deny the allegation.
  - You may have the assistance of your choice of the following staff advocates:
** At institutions that employ full-time advocates the Warden shall assign an advocate to you.

  - You may present documentary evidence.
  - You may present witnesses unless the ACRC determines that doing so would threaten personal safety or institution security.
  - You or your staff advocate may question witnesses. The ACRC may permit direct questions or require you or your advocate to submit questions to the ACRC to be asked of the witness. Repetitive, disrespectful and irrelevant questions may be forbidden.
- You shall have the right to receive a copy of the ACRC's decision in writing stating the reasons for it based upon the evidence. If the ACRC's decision is not unanimous, you may make known any additional relevant facts to the Warden/Superintendent and the Warden/Superintendent will make the final decision.
- If the ACRC's decision is unanimous, you have the right to appeal the decision to the Warden/Superintendent within 10 days of the date of the decision and again to the Administrator of the Division of Adult Institutions within 10 days of the date of the Warden/Superintendent's decision.

10. If the ACRC's decision is not unanimous, you have the right to appeal the decision of the Warden/Superintendent within 30 days of its date to the Administrator of the Division of Adult Institutions.
11. The review will be held no sooner than two (2) days and no later than 21 days after you receive this Notice of Review for Administrative Confinement. You have the right to waive the time limits for said review. If you request, a form will be provided to you for your use in waiving time limits.
