LETTER OF FRIENDSHIP & SUPPORT-

Hello World! It's been a pleasure reaching out for a new and true friend that cares and understand the trials and tribulations one faces under the circumstances of being incarcerated. I just turned 38 years old June 1st and have a different perspective of life now that I'm wiser and more goal oriented. My reason for posting this profile is to meet new friends and shine light on what a person like me has to go through on a daily basis with evil individuals that works for the department of corrections. First I want to let you in on my life so you can get to know me better. I was wrongfully convicted of an armed robbery I knew nothing about and currently trying to gain support in my effort to regain my freedom and get back out so I can take care the most important people in my life. I'm far from being selfish and I'm the type of man once you get to know, I'll always remain the same and loyal under all circumstances. Right now I have no support system but I do have a great friend by the name of Peg Swan that's very caring and supportive when called upon. Rarely do I run into great people like her and I'm praying this profile brings about others that's supportive and cares like her. I'm from a small city in Wisconsin name Racine and since been down for these 8 years I've accomplished a technical diploma in Building Maintenance & Construction and have plans upon my release to establish good credit, work 2 jobs and save up to become self employed. My strengths are helping others and educating myself as much as possible. Other strengths of mine are inspiring others so they lives won't become a disaster like mine became and always look to grow in every aspect in life. They say proper preparation prevents poor performance and I try to base my life every day on being a better man and a model citizen so when people see me they see a reflection of everyone elses progression around me, that's why I'm so confident in having other great friends in my life that will appreciate the great person I am. I been maintaining great integrity despite the lack of medical treatment I faced since the day of my incarceration. I have a bullet lodged in my spine and be in a great deal of pain only to be refuse the proper medical treatment I face on an every day basis. I was recently given the wrong medication because of unlicensed correctional officers passing out medication when licensed medical staff is the only ones that suppose to pass out medication. The result of taking the wrong medication ended with me having overdose like symptoms and now the correctional officials trying to act like nothing never took place to try and cover up there mistakes and time after time it works because us inmates has the lack of support from the community which if it's up to me, about to end. That's another reason why I'm reaching out for support from the community. My goal is to give back to the community after this is all said and done once I file these civil suits for violating the constitutional rights of not just me but other inmates as well. I also want to post some of the paper work from my criminal case so I can share with the public how an innocent man like myself was wrongfully convicted and also document to show how I'm being treated medically by receiving the lack of medical treatment I been receiving since my incarceration begin. First, I want to introduce myself to the world and use this profile to gain friendship & loyalty so in the near future our bond can grow to the point it will become unbreakable. Soon I will post more about myself as far as all my technical college certificates and accomplishments just to name a few so my new found loving friends can have an understanding of who they came to encounter with. There's nothing I have to hide from a true friend because real friends don't judge each other, they pick each other up during the darkest times of they're lives and I hope this short introduction qualifies for a response and so you can get to know me even better than what you've read in this profile. I have a lot more to share so until then I will like to thank you for your concern and undivided attention and I wish you the best of prosperity in all you do.

Truly Genuine,

Tony C. Franklin Jr.
