

Happy Holidays!

I can't believe another year has gone by. It seems that's the only time we manage to cross paths.

The only thing new with me is I had a heart attack in August. It wouldn't have happened had it not been for a doctor increasing my prescription medication. But things are back to normal now.

I believe the new year will be a good one for me ... finally! I believe Governor Elect Evers will change the parole system to something that is meaningful. I just received another 24 month defer - that's the 8th 24 following one 48 month defer. I'm going on 73 years young with nearly 34 years in prison for a crime that wasn't intentional. But, I have to look on the bright side. Had I not been sent to prison, I wouldn't have been able to assist all those that needed assistance. Nor would I have met - through the mail - good people like you.

Needless to say, I hope this finds you well and in good spirits. 'Tis the season for wishes to come true. Remember, because creation is finished, what you wish for already exists. All you have to do is imagine it!

Every one of us is special. Otherwise God wouldn't have created us!

I do wish your family and you a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!
