

Dear woman
May 14th, 2015

Dear woman,
I think if you often,
In fact I can't imagine life without you.
For millenniums you have stood loyally by my side,
Giving birth to generations upon generations thus creating a strong blood line,
Bringing civilization to many nations without lying, and not once have I expressed appreciation for you,
Instead I have neglected, mistreated and abused you,
Yet you still love me,
You still are with me,

Dear Woman
How could I ever convince you to forgive me?
I can first begin by saying sister I'm sorry,
By no longer ignoring the abuse of you,
By no longer turning a blind eye to your black eye,
By no longer excusing crimes against you,
By no longer abandoning you by going to prison,
By no longer allowing you to go solo in raising our children
By no longer exploiting you to make a living
Instead

I will from this day forward
Protect you, Stand up for you
Cherish you,
Respect you,
Rebuild our community with you,
Teach our sons how to be men
Teach our daughters how to be women,
And to never, ever, ever
Disrespect you again!!!
